BRITISH POLICY DISCUSSED

Vigorous Review of the South African Situation from the Boer Point of View-Light on the Jealousy Between Transvaal and Colony

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, October 29.—It is said that second instailment of extracts from the "Kruger memors," will be published to-day. It is understood that the memoirs give a narrative of the ex-Pres ident's career, but do not go deeply into collical or diplomatic aspects, or advise the Boers as to the best policy to be purand after Mr. Kruger's death. A strik-ing feature of the memoirs is a reveia-tion of the jealousies before the war be-tween the inhabitants of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, and the Col-ony Boers, which prevented anything like a satisfactory mutual understanding.

a satisfactory mutual understanding. Mr. Kruger takes pains to prove that he did his atmost to smooth matters over and prevent the war, but the Boers' inand prevent the war, but the Boers' inborn antipathy to the British proved to be too strong for him.

Mr. Kruger closes his memoirs with the words: "I am convinced that God will not forsake his people, even although it often appears so, and I acquiesce in the will of the Lord, knowing he will not allow an afflicted people to perish. The Lord hath all hearts in his hand, and he aurneth them whithersoever he will."

The ex-President was once invited to meet Sir Bartle Frere. He replied he would be quite willing to do so if he were told which Frare it was He dewere teld which Frere it was. He deslared he knew four Freres, and ex-plained this remark by describing different aspects of Sir Bartle Frere's character, as presented by blue books, etc., saying some of his characteristics friendly, while others were inimicat to the Boers.

Mr. Kruger describes the "Jesuitical" Cecil Rhodes as the "curse of South Africa." He says: "No matter how base or contemptible, be it lying, bribery or treachery, all and every means were welcome to him."

Lord Milner, he describes as a "typical judge, autocratic beyond endurance" TOOL OF CHAMBERLAIN.

Mr. Kruger declares that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain was undoubtedly the late "Cecil Rhodes' accomplice in the Jameson raid," and that Chamberlain appointed Lord Milner British High Commissioner of South Africa with the direct intention of driving matters to extremes. "This tool of Mr. Chamberlain," says Mr. Kruger, "carried out his mission faithfully and turned South

Mr. Kruger declares that the Tansvall national union was under Cecil Rhodes' paramount influence from its very incention, and describes it as having from its very outset used the demand for the franchise as a cloak for designs against the republic. He describes how, after franchise as a cloak for designs against the republic. He describes how, after the Jameson raid, when the republic was practically defenseless, he became consinced of the necessity of preparing for war, and gradually accumulated war materials. This was especially the case after the British Parliamentary, inculiry ter the British Parliamentary inquiry into the raid, which, Mr. Kruger says, showed Mr. Chamberlain's complicity. Mr. Kruger contends that his institu tion of reform in 1899, probably started Mr. Chamberlain, and impelled Great Britain to hurry on the crisis for fear of losing a pretext for war.

Pamphilio de Narvaez sailed from Spain in June, 1527, to become governor of Florida. He spent considerable time in Cuba, and it was not until April, 1528, that he landed at Tampa Bay and assumed possession of the country. He advanced into the interior and treated the natives with the greatest cruelty, cutting off their noses and ears, and setting his Cuban bloodhounds upon them to tear them to pieces. The opposi-tion offered by the Indians became so fierce that to advance further meant certain destruction for the invaders, and they retraced their steps to the coast, though but a few scattered remnants of the expedition ever reached it. STRIKE OF DOCK LABORERS

TIE UP MONTREAL PORT

(By Associated Press.)

MONTREAL, QUE., October 29.—Two lihousand dock laborers went on strike to—lay, completely tying up the business of the port. The men have been working all the season on a flat scale of twenty cents per hour, night or day work, and they now demand payment at the rate of timity cents per hour for day work and thi-iy-five cents per hour for light work. The demand was refused. To-night a mass meeting was held on the Champ de Mars, and resolutions passed unanimously that the men would remain out until their full demands have been conceded. The demand is based upon the great increase in the cost of living.

The ship agents contend that the men are being paid all that the conditions of the port warrant.

Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Massachusetts, ever in the fore-front of progress, possessing far and away the best and most logical law relative to chartered corporations in North America, which almost completely prevents the issue of watered stock, and subserves many other useful purposes, offers a shining example to the Virginia Legislature. That great State is now engaged in the laudable effort to incorporate labor unions. It recognizes the fact that labor has as much right to be protected by organization as has capital; indeed, the congregation of labor is in one sense actually the congregation of so much capital, for the labor of the miner or workman is his capital, and it is in many respects the very best capital in the world. The elemand was refused to the virginia Legislature. That great State is now engaged in the laudable effort to incorporate labor unions. It recognizes the fact that labor has as much right to be protected by organization as has capital; indeed, the congregation of labor is in one sense actually the congregation of the world. The class of the protected by organization as has capital; inde Editor of The Times: Sir,—Massachusetts, ever in the fore-

A labor union should not consist of an irresponsible organization. If it does, it greatly restrains and diminishes its usefulness, and in fact gives it a power which it does not deserve and aught not which it does not deserve, and ought not to have, and which is really wrong upon

While it does not deserve them, it gives some color to the wretched and sacri-legious diatribes of such men as President Baer, who measures and refuses to weigh the coal to the miners, taking openly almost four thousand pounds to a ton, and then complacently states with great satisfaction that he is the instrument of Divine Providence specially called upon to do this thing. He is perhaps an agent, but very probably he has mistaken the name of his principal. The public, in many strikes, is often the mistaken the name of his principal. The public, in many strikes, is often the worst sufferer, and it undoubtedly has certain rights, and one of those rights is to demand the incorporation of labor unions in order to fix the responsibility. The incorporation will not hurt the laborer: on the contrary, it will improved. borer; on the contrary, it will immensely aid him in accomplishing his object. To the writer it is a surprise that the incor-poration of labor unions has not long since been accomplished. I beg to suggest to the Virginia Legislature, soon to convene, the following act, or some-thing similar to it:

"An act to incorporate labor unions. "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, That it shall be lawful to incorporate a congregation of citizens, commonly styled labor unions. The said labor unions shall consist of a president and as many directors and members as they shall deem proper. The object of the union shall be specifically set forth in the charter of incorporation, and each labor union shall have a distinctive name; it shall have the right to sue and be sued; the right to a seal and to own real estate in Virginia necessary for its chartered purposes, not less than five hundred hundred nor more than ten thousand dollars in value, and the right to make all proper by-laws, rules and regulations for its government and organization, and the charter shall be subject to repeal by the General Assembly of Virginia for
